We then travel to the seaside town of Portland & visit the Maritime Discovery Museum for a guided tour before enjoying a bbq lunch.

From here we travel along the coastline crossing the South Australia border arriving at “Umpherston Sinkhole” in Mt Gambier. The sinkhole (sunken garden) was once a typical limestone cave formed due to the corrosion of limestone rocks by the waves of sea water. The sinkhole was naturally created when the chamber’s roof collapsed by some natural calamity.

TUESDAY

PENOLA & COONAWARRA WINE DISTRICT

After breakfast we will visit the “Blue Lake”. The Blue Lake occupies one of the craters of the extinct volcano after which the city has been named.

Early each November, the lake's sombre blue, which is in evidence during the winter months, mysteriously changes to an intense deep turquoise blue almost overnight.

The colouring remains until late February, when it gradually changes. From late March, it returns to a distinct sombre blue colouring that remains until the following November.

We leave here & visit the Mary MacKillop Penola Interpretive Centre & Petticoat Lane.
